

State of Washington Citizens Advisory Committee On Pipeline Safety

Telephone Conference Call Notice

January 14, 2010

The Citizens Committee on Pipeline Safety, a Governor-appointed oversight committee, is planning to hold a telephone conference call some time during the day on January 14, 2010.

On December 3, 2009, the Governor's Communications Office announced an additional measure to reform state government. As part of this measure, the Governor proposed to eliminate more boards and commissions. Since the Citizens Committee on Pipeline Safety is on the list for elimination, the committee has decided to hold a conference call to further discuss this issue in support of continuing the committee.

Committee meetings are open to the public. To ensure the public has an opportunity to participate, the UTC will be providing access for interested parties to dial in; however a limited number of lines will be made available. If you are interested in being able to listen to the conference call, please contact me at the email address provided below. The time and duration of this meeting is yet to be determined. More information will be sent out at a later date. Until then, please let me know by January 4, 2010 if you are interested.

Thank you.
